Phlox Subulata or Creeping Phlox is a hardy evergreen perennial with creeping habit of growth and moss-like foliage. Excellent for borders, patios, rockeries, banks and as a ground cover. Likes sunny locations.

An excellent resale item for you to grow in the open, in cold frames, or pots and flats for counter sales.

We offer the following choice selection of varieties. Some of these are our own introductions.

Admiration— Cameo pink with white eye. A standard variety of very desirable pink.

Alba— Pure white flowers. Compact growth with myriad flowers and lovely, lasting green foliage.

Astro— Deep orchid-rose. A good grower that is usually the first to bloom. A Tanglewood introduction.

Atropurpurea— Wine red. A well known variety that is eye catching when in bloom.

Blue Hills— Attractive medium blue. Flowers freely. The most popular of the blues.

Blue Emerald— Another good blue similar to Blue Hills.

Butterfly— Lilac blush with purple eye. This has an attractive bloom with showy purple eye. A Tanglewood introduction.

- Crimson Beauty— Brilliant cyclamen-red. Free flowering and a good grower. Truly an all around good performer.
- Dixie Brilliant— A slow grower and rather straggly growth with giant carmine red flowers.
- Red Wing— Large glowing red flowers. An excellent grower and profuse bloomer. We are justly proud of this introduction and consider it the best large flowered red. A Tanglewood introduction.
- Sensation— Bright pink with red eye. A sparkling pink and good bloomer. One of the loveliest pinks.
- White Delight— Pure white with foliage similar to Alba.
